Diehard occupiers dig in

Police say they have a plan to deal with any number of protesters in Confederation Park Barricades, other items on site could be used as weapons, but police say they believe protesters are non-violent

▶ A group of Occupy protesters are seen dug in behind barricades and blankets yesterday. They promise to resist removal from Confederation Park.

Occupy Ottawa protesters voted to begin planning to occupy another site in Ottawa at the group's general assembly in Confederation Park last night.

The group voted yesterday evening to start building structures on private property that will be ready to be moved to another public location on short notice or in the spring, said organizer Shane Davis-Young.

A location or a time for such a move hasn't been determined yet.

A midnight eviction deadline set Monday by the National Capital Commission came and went without police action.

Many Occupy Ottawa protesters left, but a diehard few stayed and erected wooden palette barricades around the fountain in the centre of the park.

Between six and 12 protesters were expected to spend last night camping at the fountain.

Should the police break up the camp, the next daily general meeting will be held at the University of Ottawa student centre, said Davis-Young.

Police said yesterday they are hoping Occupy Ottawa protesters leave Confederation Park on their own.

"We do have an officer at the scene and we are just evaluating the situation," said Const. Marc Soucy.

Councillors get their grade

Organization judges city councillors based on how they voted on environmental issues

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

Ecology Ottawa is releasing a report card on city councillors' environmental voting records in 2011 this morning, but some councillors question the group's methods.

The latest Council Watch grades are based on how councillors voted on 12 issues in 2011 that have an impact on the environment — including OC Transpo funding, road expansions, garbage pickup and the urban boundary.

Top-scoring councillors, David Chernushenko and Diane Holmes, voted the way Ecology Ottawa wanted on 11 of 12 issues. The 12th vote was one that cut OC Transpo funding and triggered the route optimization plan.

Chernushenko said the right thing for the environment isn't always clear, or the only important consideration. For that reason he suggested to Ecology Ottawa that they use a different methodology than a voting record report card to advocate for the environment.

Ecology Ottawa policy co-ordinator Trevor Haché said the method is based only on the councillors' voting records and doesn't take into account their motivations, their comments or their other actions.

"There's probably some imperfections in the way the report-card methodology has been created, but it still gives the public and city councillors a good feel of what our priorities are and how we think they should be responding differently," he said. "We're trying to grade them on what they've accomplished, rather than what they're saying."

Chernushenko also said "scolding" councillors with poor grades isn't the most effective way of winning them over on issues.

Ecology Ottawa will publish the full results at ecologyottawa.ca/councilwatch.

Headline acts and new venue for Hoedown

2012 edition to be held at Walter Baker Park Aug. 10-12 Organizer expects twice as many people

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

Capital Hoedown organizers have announced their 2012 lineup and a new site for one of the biggest country music festivals in North America.

Among the big-name acts slated to attend are Taylor Swift, Brad Paisley, Reba (McEntire), The Band Perry, and Ronnie Dunn.

Terri Clark, Gord Bamford, Dean Brody, Tara Oram, Marshall Dane, Chad Brownlee and High Valley are also scheduled, and festival organizers said additional "country music icons" will be announced leading up to the festival.

Officials also announced a new venue for the Aug. 10-12 event — Walter Baker Park in Kanata.

Denis Benoit, president and CEO of Concert International, said he expects to "easily double" last year's attendance of about 47,000 people.

"We made a lot of noise in the music industry with last year's lineup," said Benoit. "Last year, we had the absolute biggest lineup of any country music festival in North America and this year is the same thing."

Benoit said this year's acts will mix new and traditional country music, with performers like Taylor Swift and Ronnie Dunn — two of Benoit's favourites.

Tickets go on sale on Saturday at 10 a.m. through CapitalHoedown.net.

Swift's message wins council fan

Kanata Coun. Allan Hubley is one of the thousands of local country music fans eager to see Taylor Swift perform at the 2012 Capital Hoedown, but for a special reason.

"I've always been a big fan of country music," said Hubley. "But with my own personal situation last month, having Taylor Swift bring her message about anti-bullying to Ottawa is very important."

Hubley's 15-year-old son, Jamie, took his own life in October after battling with depression bullying. In March, Swift released a single called Mean, which takes aim at bullies with lyrics like "One day, I'll be big enough so you can't hit me/And all you're ever gonna be is mean."

Feds rapped on drug safety

'Poor information is a widespread, chronic problem in the federal government,' auditor general says after release of fall report

The public is waiting far too long to be warned about significant risks in the drugs they take, the federal auditor general said yesterday.

It's only the latest example of risk caused by rampant information mismanagement that is undercutting work in many federal departments, said interim auditor general John Wiersema.

He called on the government to ensure things don't get worse as it goes about a major cost-cutting exercise over the coming years.

In an overview of government operations, Wiersema said, "Managers are not systematically collecting and using the information they need to manage their programs, and they are not held accountable for this."

The audit of Health Canada found the department has an archaic system for monitoring that can take years to tell the public that some drugs already on the market come with significant risks.

In one case, a drug being prescribed for epilepsy, migraines, psychiatric conditions or weight loss was found to be linked to birth defects.

But it took six months for the brand-name drug to include a warning, and almost two years for generic producers to be told they had to change their labels. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stimulus fund

Wiersema says he's been given no way to measure the impact of a two-year, $47-billion fund designed to maintain or create jobs during the last recession.

- The Community Adjustment Fund was one of three programs under the Conservative government's Economic Action Plan that were examined.
- Wiersema found a common theme among the three specific programs and $7 billion in spending he examined: All are hobbled by a failure to coherently say whether results met expectations for the dollars that were spent.

BETTER VISA SCREENING URGED

Immigration Canada and the Canada Border Services Agency need to tighten the visa system with better health and security screening for people who want to come to Canada either as visitors or permanent residents, says the interim auditor general's report.

John Wiersema said his office has been pointing out weaknesses in the visa system for 20 years.

The report said the criteria visa officers use to sift out high-risk applicants have not been reviewed in years, and the border analysts who provide security advice to visa officers often don't have the right training. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minority? Liberals throw a mask over it

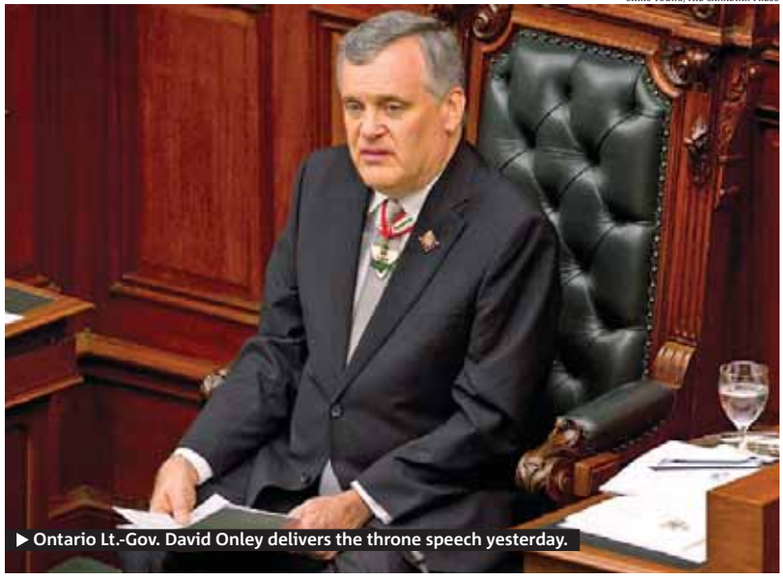
Throne speech sounds just like the party's campaign platform

CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS



▶ Ontario Lt.-Gov. David Onley delivers the throne speech yesterday.

There was little sign Ontario's Liberals have been reduced to a minority government in yesterday's throne speech.

It sounded a lot like their campaign platform.

The speech — opening the first session of the Ontario legislature since the Oct. 6 election — repeated key Liberal promises.

They include:

Introducing a $1,500 home renovation tax credit for seniors.

Cutting college and university tuition fees by 30 per cent starting Jan. 1.

Taking the next steps towards all-day GO train commuter service in the Golden Horseshoe.

The 12-page throne speech was read by Lt.-Gov. David Onley.

It said the Liberals would govern based on ideas they put forward during the fall campaign, and spoke about the "four-year mandate" they were given.

"Your government will implement the plan it campaigned on, and Ontario has elected it to carry out, as a strong, steady government," Onley said.

The government said the seniors' home-renovation tax credit, which would cost $136 million a year, combined with an increase in home-care services, will stimulate the economy by creating jobs, and keep people out of more expensive hospitals and long-term-care homes.

The government wants to cut the growth in health spending by more than half to about three per cent a year, and limit its overall spending increase to one per cent, but that will mean cuts.

More details will come today when Finance Minister Dwight Duncan delivers his fall economic update in the legislature.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Freeze-free

- The Throne Speech made no mention of Progressive Conservative demands for a public-sector wage freeze or the NDP's call to scrap corporate tax cuts.
- But it did imply the Liberals will need opposition help to pass legislation.

Submerged-car victims lived in fear, court told

Three girls allegedly killed by their family over honour complained to police, child protection officials and social workers just months before their deaths, a court has heard.

They said their father and brother assaulted them and their mother feared for their lives, the court in Kingston was told yesterday.

The eldest daughter, Zainab, 19, ran away to a women's shelter two months before the girls' bodies were found in a submerged car.

She told workers there that she was afraid of her father, the court heard.

"Be aware of my bro.... I (don't) want to give him the slightest idea that we (are) friends."

ALLEGED EXCERPT FROM EMAIL VICTIM WROTE TO HER BOYFRIEND

The girls' parents, Tooba Mohammad Yahya, 41, and Mohammad Shafia, 58, and their brother Hamed Mohammad Shafia, 20, are accused of killing them as well as Shafia's other wife in a polygamous marriage.

FORMAL GUIDELINES

Ottawa tunes in to tweets

The federal government has hit the Like button on social media.

It's unveiling rules for how departments should use sites like Twitter and Facebook.

"For many Canadians, Web 2.0 is increasingly becoming a primary channel for sending, receiving and generating information," say the guidelines. But they also note public servants need to be aware of the risks of operating in social media circles.

Treasury Board President Tony Clement, who is an avid user of social media, says online tools have an important role in government.

Occupy Canada changes shape

Camps in many cities dismantled, handed eviction notices Activists plan next move, some want to stay

The face of the Occupy Canada movement was changing as authorities moved into camps in Victoria, Quebec City and Calgary, and groups in Toronto and Ottawa waited to see if police would enforce eviction deadlines.

The Occupy Toronto site showed clear signs of a protest on the wane early yesterday, with several tents already taken down and demonstrators with garbage bags cleaning up.

"There's a lot of mess here, obviously, after five weeks, so we're starting to tidy up — try to make it look presentable before we leave entirely," said Brent Hendren, 24, of London, Ont.

In Montreal, protesters expressed a resolve to stay in place despite a request from the city's mayor for them to vacate.

CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Police officers walk through the Occupy Toronto camp yesterday in St. James Park in Toronto.

In Quebec City, police mounted an operation at dawn to begin removing Occupy protesters. They reportedly offered no resistance when police moved in.

And police in Victoria, B.C., arrested one person as they ousted the remaining participants of the Occupy Victoria movement.

The removal began before dawn, one day after lawyers for the City of Victoria appeared in B.C. Supreme Court, winning an enforcement order that gave police the power to remove campers and their belongings.

Activists in Vancouver moved from one public space to another on Monday, prompting government lawyers to prepare to ask for a court injunction once more.

Parts of Calgary's Occupy camp were dismantled late Monday.

F-35s unable to track troops, talk to older planes

Software that will allow F-35s to track ground forces and communicate with older aircraft is not slated to be part of the initial operating system on Canada's first stealth fighters.

The features are not expected to be added until an upgrade program, due around 2019 — or three years after the Royal Canadian Air Force begins taking delivery the advanced multi-role fighter.

The system that helps distinguish between friend and foe is known as a Blue Force Tracker, which is GPS-enabled, and its absence means the computers of the first F-35s will not be able to link with ground troops until software is updated.

Also missing is a feature known as a Link 16, which allows highly advanced aircraft to exchange data, such as text messages, with ships and other aircraft in real-time.

Ottawa prof confirms it: Yes, women are catty

Trait not just a mainstay of TV's The Bachelor

A University of Ottawa professor says the catty behaviour seen on the popular reality TV show The Bachelor is pretty close to … reality.

Most women use aggression against sexual rivals, Tracy Vaillancourt confirms.

Vaillancourt's research — published in the journal Aggressive Behavior — took a look at how females compete with one another for the attention of males.

Her study suggests The Bachelor provides insight into the tactics women use to compete.

And it shows how vying for the affections of an eligible man can bring out the worst in women.

ABC/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Bachelor Jake Pavelka presents a ring to Vienna Giraldi on The Bachelor. Research suggests the show's catty behaviour is close to the truth.

Such tactics can include gossiping about a rival's level of promiscuity or disparaging her appearance, so as to reduce her "mate value."

Vaillancourt's study suggests this type of behaviour is not only a TV phenomenon — it's also a mainstream reality in schools and in workplaces.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Catty camera

Researchers secretly videotaped women to capture levels of cattiness.

Results showed that almost all women were aggressive toward an attractive, sexy female.

When she left the room, they laughed at her, ridiculed her appearance or suggested she was sexually available.

But when the same woman was dressed conservatively, the group barely noticed her.

Another experiment showed a sexy colleague was seen as a sexual rival.

Results showed the women did not want to introduce her to their boyfriends.

Curiosity drives voyage to Mars

On Friday, NASA launches a pioneering rover into space High-tech lab will gather data on red planet

ELISABETH BRAW
OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

This mission really is going to Mars. On Friday, NASA is sending an entire laboratory to the red planet. The lab, named Curiosity, will investigate rocks and soil and take pictures. It will also look for water and signs of life.

"Curiosity is like a robotic geologist," says Jordan Evans, deputy manager of the mission. "It's a lab that also brings its own tools. It has a scoop, a drill and a sieve so it can collect samples. Then it feeds the samples into the lab, which analyzes them."

Curiosity also has cameras that will record everything and a weather station that will measure everything from humidity to air pressure.

> "We'll gain more knowledge about the conditions for future human habitation on Mars."
> NASA SCIENTIST JOY CRISP

NASA has sent rovers to Mars before, but Curiosity is the first to carry a lab. "It will document what Mars was like early on, which it will do by examining the layers of rock on a mountain," says Dr. Joy Crisp, deputy project scientist for NASA's Mars Science Laboratory project. "And it will examine what it's like today. Curiosity is bringing a radiation monitor so we can make sure humans aren't harmed when they go to Mars."

At NASA's Jet Propulsion Center in California, scientists will be monitoring Curiosity during its stay on the red planet. "It can communicate with Earth through satellites," Evans says. "Each day the NASA team will look at the results and decide what Curiosity should do the next day." If something goes wrong, the rover can reboot and even use alternative tools if one set fails.

After one Mars year — 98 weeks — Curiosity will permanently park itself on the planet. "Of course its immediate purpose is scientific discovery," Crisp says. "But by sending beautiful images from Mars we can encourage people to go into science. That's a very important purpose, too, because science and technology are crucial to our future prosperity."

▶ Martians, this set of wheels is coming your way: An artist's rendering of Curiosity on Mars.

How they built it

Since it carries a large lab, Curiosity is much bigger than previous Mars rovers.

"Because of its size, it requires a larger rocket," says deputy mission manager Jordan Evans. "But it couldn't be too big, since we had to fly it to Florida in an airplane. In the end, we had five centimetres to spare in the plane."

Evans' team also had to invent larger landing pads. And since Curiosity will be alone in space, everything has been simulated in advance.

"To measure the impact of the landing, we simulated it by hanging Curiosity from a crane," Evans says.

Supermodel adviser blames tabloid hacking for sacking

- Inquiry set up by British PM following News of the World scandal
- Victims' lawyers accuse Daily Mail of trying to intimidate witnesses

Elle Macpherson fired her business adviser for leaking secrets when journalists were actually getting juicy details about the supermodel by hacking into her phone, the former aide told a British inquiry into media ethics yesterday.

In testimony, Mary-Ellen Field described how she lost both her job for Macpherson and one at an advisory firm because of the unfounded suspicions — a double-blow that was all the more serious because she was in poor health. She didn't identify her illness.

Field was one of several victims of press intrusion testifying yesterday at Britain's Royal Courts of Justice. The inquiry was set up after the scandal over phone hacking and other tactics used at the News of the World, which was closed by media mogul Rupert Murdoch in July. The inquiry plans to issue a report next year and could recommend major changes to the way the media in Britain are regulated.

Field said her relationship with Macpherson was once close, but it fell apart after the model's intimate secrets began appearing in the press in 2005. Macpherson became convinced that Field was an alcoholic and ordered her to go to a U.S. rehabilitation clinic.

Field said she was shocked by the allegations, but went along with Macpherson's recommendation. "I have a severely disabled child who can never look after himself, so walking away from a high-paying position is not a good idea," Field said.

Even though staff at the clinic said Field was not an alcoholic, Macpherson fired her anyway, and Field lost her job at her firm shortly afterward. Although it has since emerged that the media leaks were the result of phone hacking, Field said she has not heard from Macpherson in years.

Soccer player Garry Flitcroft also told the court of his family's harassment by the media after the failure of a judicial bid to block news of his extramarital affair. And British comedian Steve Coogan claimed that he was warned in 2002 that Andy Coulson — then deputy editor of News of the World — would be listening in on a conversation Coogan had with a woman in a bid to trick him into making indiscreet comments. ## Facebook and HTC get closer Facebook is working closely with HTC to create a smartphone with smoother social media integration.

According to the website All Things D, the new phone, codenamed Buffy, for the vampire slayer of TV fame, should be available within the next 12 to 18 months.

All Things D reports that Facebook is modifying Google's Android operating system to fully integrate its many services into the smartphone.

Many smartphones currently allow easy mobile access to Facebook. Buffy is expected to allow a deeper level of integration of both friends and activities. There is speculation that the operating system will also allow users to access social games, such as Farmville, directly from mobile Facebook. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICES

Change your password, often

Online security experts say there are a number of tactics to thwart hackers when it comes to passwords, including changing them regularly and using a hard-to-guess combination of letters, numbers, punctuation and symbols.

But perhaps the best piece of advice is not to use the word password as your password.

The California-based software company SplashData analyzed millions of stolen passwords that had been obtained by hackers and found some dangerously simple choices came up again and again.

The most common was password, followed by 123456, 12345678, qwerty, abc123, monkey, 1234567, letmein, trustno1, dragon and baseball.

Users who have trouble remembering all their online passwords can buy software to automatically — and securely — log them into websites. SplashData's version is SplashID, while the Canadian company AgileBits makes 1Password. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prairies most generous this holiday season: RBC

Residents of Atlantic Canada plan to be the most generous in the country this holiday season, according to Royal Bank data.

RBC says 90 per cent of Atlantic Canadians plan on giving gifts, compared to 80 per cent nationally. The bank says residents intend to spend an average of $877 on gifts — well above the national average of $640.

In Manitoba and Saskatchewan, 88 per cent of consumers say they plan to give gifts and spend an average of $686. In Alberta, 82 per cent of consumers say they plan on giving gifts and expect to spend an average of $703 this season.

RBC says 79 per cent of Ontario consumers expect to give gifts and spend $663 on average, roughly $50 more than last year. THE CANADIAN PRESS

WATCH YOURSELF, NOW EVERYONE ELSE CAN TOO

JUST SAYIN' ...

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

There was a time that if you wanted to stand naked on your patio, only the guy with the binoculars across the street would catch you in the act.

These days, thanks to Google Street View, everyone gets to look.

Just ask the woman in Miami who today finds that her naked foray onto her back stoop, captured by a passing Google Street View camera, yields more than two million results on the search engine of the same name.

Google Street View is supposed to be a helpful way for you to see your destination as it really looks, as opposed to a pointy B pin on a map. It is not supposed to offer a panorama of human folly, such as the casually careless naked lady, or the equally naked guy in Germany climbing out of the trunk of his car, or the guy walking his snake down the street, or various Brits mooning the passing camera, or the two Norwegian scuba divers running down the street on flippers, complete with tridents. (Why did the scuba divers cross the road?)

As the Street View cameras capture every square millimetre of the planet and resolution improves, it's only going to get worse. Or better, if you like to watch.

"It's not just that Big Brother is watching ... It's also that little sister and Cousin Bert and Uncle Ernie and all Rabbit's friends and relations are watching as well"

Google is self-correcting, and as soon as it learned about its naked-lady problem, it turned her into a pixelated blur, but only after the photos of the poor women spread across the Internet like the bird flu.

What do we expect when we combine the Internet with the latest surveillance technology? Google Street View has the potential to turn us all into everyday fugitives from scrutiny, trapped in a high-res corner with nowhere to hide.

It's not just that Big Brother is watching, although you know he is. It's also that little sister and Cousin Bert and Uncle Ernie and all Rabbit's friends and relations are watching as well.

Of course, not everyone sees that as a bad thing, such as the guy who found Google Street View to be an ideal way to expose himself to anyone who happened upon his sad, little — with an emphasis on little — sector of the galaxy.

For the rest of us, it's bad enough we have to wear clean underwear every day in case we get hit by a bus and have to be undressed by medical personnel. Now we also have to make sure, no matter where we are, to remember to wear clothes and, while we're at it, keep the nose mining to a minimum.

And smile, dammit.

Worth Mentioning

DRIVING HIV TESTS HOME. At one office of the Department of Motor Vehicles in Washington, D.C., motorists can get a driver's licence, temporary road-tax stickers and something wholly unrelated to the road: A free HIV test.

In a city with one of the highest percentages of residents living with HIV or AIDS, health officials have now test-driven the in-DMV testing and are finding that it works. So far, more than 5,000 people have been screened and received results while they wait.

"You have to meet people where they are," explained Sheila Brockington, who oversees HIV testing at the DMV office.

Initially, some officials doubted many people would test. Now, however, between 25 and 35 people get tested every day at the DMV location. Anyone who agrees gets $7 off their bill.

By now, the people who run the program have their pitch down. When people are in line, one of the testers approaches with the offer: Free tests, money off your bill and the promise that it won't hurt.

Art in the pigsty of the beholder

Live graffiti painting. A colossal rose bed soaring 20 feet high. Early photos of Andy Warhol, a Picasso up for auction and a naked woman living in a pigpen. They're all part of the lineup for Art Basel Miami Beach, which runs Dec. 1-4, with a host of related events beginning Nov. 30.

The pigpen installation will undoubtedly be the most jaw-dropping event at the art fair. Known for photographing herself nude in subway tunnels or in front of graffiti walls, performance artist Miru Kim will be living with pigs for her performance The Pig That Therefore I Am.

"The immediate connection between pigs and me will be felt through seeing the living bodies mingle through skin," Kim told The Associated Press. A glass barrier will act as "an insatiable gap between the spectacle and the onlooker, just like in a zoo."

The pigpen installation will be among the shows at the Primary Flight open air museum. "Some people are really going to love it. Some are going to be shocked. And a handful won't really get it," said Primary Flight founder Books Bischof.

The orphan adoption

- Martin Scorsese is the latest director to make a movie about a child with no parents
- Richard Crouse takes a look at Hugo and why orphans tug on our heartstrings

IN FOCUS

The new Martin Scorsese film is the director's first PG rated film in 18 years. Hugo is a handsome 3D kid's flick featuring adventure, a broken robot, a toy store owner and one of the mainstays of central casting — an orphan.

There are all kinds of on-screen orphans, some lovable — The Jungle Book's Mowgli, Harry Potter — some not — Hannibal Lecter, Darth Vader — but few have been as memorable as Oliver Twist.

The youngster first captured people's imaginations 173 years ago as the title character in Charles Dickens's second book and debuted on film in 1908.

Since then there have been at least eleven adaptations of the story of an urchin who famously asked his cruel workhouse foreman for more gruel with the words, "Please sir, I want some more."

The most famous version of the story has to be Oliver!, a splashy 1968 all-singing all-dancing edition, which film critic Pauline Kael said was one of the few film adaptations of a stage musical superior to the original stage show.

Oliver had it rough. Much rougher than Little Orphan Annie, the perky red-haired waif adopted by the über-wealthy Daddy Warbucks, but for the actress who played her in the 1982 movie Annie there were some unpleasant moments.

The curly red wig Aileen Quinn wore was so itchy that a specially designed comb had to be created to give her some relief, and in order to get Annie's dog Sandy to realistically kiss her the prop master rubbed Alpo all over her face.

Still, Quinn says, "I just remember having the best time."

Unlike our next orphans, Oliver and Annie were decidedly earthbound ragamuffins, but the movies have seen lots of alien children abandoned on our planet.

In Escape to Witch Mountain, Tony and Tia Malone's psychic abilities made them standouts at the orphanage and the moniker Clark Kent was the name his human adoptive parent's gave to Kal-El. You know him best as Superman.

Superman wasn't the only superhero orphan, however.

The death of Bruce Wayne's parents at the hand of the Joker prompted him to become the Caped Crusader. "You made me," he grumbles to the parent's killer in Batman.

Finally, Peter Parker's parents were Richard and Mary, CIA agents killed in the line of duty.

Rumour has it they will appear in the 2012 reboot, The Amazing Spider-Man, played by Campbell Scott and Embeth Davidtz.

Arthur Christmas

Genre: Comedy/Drama
Director: Sarah Smith
Stars: James McAvoy, Hugh Laurie

Arthur Christmas not only answers the mystery of how Santa Claus delivers billions of presents in one night but it shows how the now high-tech computer-operated system is flawed. When one girl doesn't get her gift, Santa's inept son (McAvoy) sets off to ensure Christmas isn't ruined. For all its familiar themes, Arthur delivers enough clever laughs and eye-popping scenery to entertain kiddies hungry for holiday fare. STEVE GOW

The Muppets

Genre: Comedy/Musical
Director: James Bobin
Stars: Amy Adams, Jason Segel and Chris Cooper

There may have been better films released in 2011, but this critic is hard pressed to think of a better movie than The Muppets, writer/star Jason Segel and director James Bobbin's revamp of the beloved '70s TV series as well as the expanded big screen franchise that followed. It's perfect entertainment, ferociously funny and far out. Segel is perfect as Gary, who lives a candy-coated life with his muppet obsessed, felt and faux fur covered brother Walter, and his sunny, long suffering girlfriend Mary (Amy Adams). When the trio head to Hollywood to make Walter's dreams of meeting Kermit and company come true, they become embroiled in a scheme to save the muppet theatre from a scowling, rapping oil baron (Chris Cooper). Filled to the gills with chirpy, catchy pop songs and subversive gags, The Muppets works as both a nostalgia piece for parents and a wild romp for kids.

Hugo

Genre: Adventure/Drama
Director: Martin Scorsese
Stars: Asa Butterfield, Chloë Grace Moretz and Christopher Lee

Set in 1930s Paris, the new Martin Scorsese film is a sophisticated kid's movie about an orphan obsessed with repairing an automaton left behind by his father.

His fixation leads him to forgotten film pioneer Georges Méliès and a new life.

Hugo is the Scorsese's homage not only to the filmmakers who shaped his youth but to the art form itself.

There is a sense of wonder imprinted on every frame. Add to that star Asa Butterfield's face, reminiscent of the moon faced children of early cinema, the dulcet tones of Christopher Lee, 3D that enhances not overwhelms, and you have a movie about the magic of film with plenty of its own magic.

▶ Super 8

Super 8
Genre: Sci-Fi
Director: J.J. Abrams
Stars: Elle Fanning, Amanda Michalka, Kyle Chandler
●●½

Is it possible to be fake and sincere at the same time?

J. J. Abram's Super 8 pays homage to the popcorn pics Steven Spielberg (who gets a producer credit here) cranked out a few decades back.

It's also a grab bag of pop cult references (think Lost, Twilight Zone, Aliens, The Goonies, Gremlins).

Super 8 is set in 1979 in fictional Lillian, Ohio, where a group of kids making a home movie witness a spectacular — and suspicious — train crash. A mysterious "whatsit" aboard the train escapes, and U.S. Air Force goons set about brutally finding it.

Abrams' casting is impeccable. Joel Courtney and Elle Fanning make cute as Joe and Alice, young huggers brought together by danger, MIA moms and duelling dads. Riley Griffiths plays an amusing Charles, the junior filmmaker of the title. And Kyle Chandler evokes a younger, leaner Alec Baldwin in his role of the deputy sheriff.

Abrams has learned well from the master, Spielberg. But in the end, its calculating manner, with every element weighed for maximum nostalgia value and ironic hipster cred, leave the film feeling artificial.

▶ The Devil's Double

The Devil's Double
Genre: Drama
Director: Lee Tamahori
Stars: Dominic Cooper, Ludivine Sagnier, Raad Rawi
●●●

The Devil's Double tells recent Iraqi history through a doppelganger's dilemma: does he destroy his family or his soul?

Director Lee Tamahori's dynamic thriller is based on the true story of Latif Yahia, the regular Iraqi forced to play stand-in for Saddam Hussein's psychopathic elder son, Uday, owing to an accident of resemblance.

If Latif refuses, his family will be killed.

Britain's Dominic Cooper gives a knockout performance as good guy Latif and evil clown Uday. It's the stuff star dreams are made of.

Set in 1991 during the first Persian Gulf War, The Devil's Double is as lurid as a DayGlo painting and possibly more graphically violent than it needs to be. Yet Tamahori insists reality was far worse than what he has depicted, a view reinforced by the daily headlines.

▶ Starbuck

Starbuck
Genre: Comedy
Director: Ken Scott
Stars: Patrick Huard, Julie LeBreton, Antoine Bertrand
●●●

A one-joke premise about a sperm-selling slacker forced to confront his own fertility gets a surprisingly moving treatment in this Quebec comedy by Ken Scott.

David Wozniak (Patrick Huard) is a good-time Charlie in Montreal whose good times seem about to end: the mob is after him for unpaid debts and his girlfriend Valérie is tired of his boyish antics. But his troubles really begin when a lawyer tells him he's the father of 533 children, thanks to his highly saleable sperm. And now those kids are trying to identify the donor, who has been code-named Starbuck, after a gifted bull.

A set-up like this could be milked for cheap laughs. But Starbuck thankfully goes in more for hard-won home truths.

Deer Tick's Divine Providence is anything but preachy Check out their fun-loving album

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

Deer Tick calls their new album Divine Providence, which at first seems like a sweet homage to the group's beginnings in Rhode Island's capital city. But as with most things related to this band, the truth is uglier, ruder and much more rock 'n' roll.

"It actually came from a black metal song that we wrote," says singer John McCauley. "It had extremely anti-Christian lyrics, so we thought it'd be funny if we named that song Divine Providence."

They eventually scrapped the song, as it didn't fit the mood of their new album — which is mostly a rollicking good time, catering to classic rock fist-pumps as much as country rock swaying. Filled with titles like Let's All Go to the Bar, and lyrics like, "Johnny's got a bottle of wine, no one is gonna make it to work on time," they recall 1980s rock outcasts The Replacements.

"Oh yeah, we're big Replacements fans," says McCauley.

And like The Mats, there is a degree of longing and loneliness beneath the surface of the party proceedings too.

But Deer Tick is no throwback act. They are writing very much for these times.

The song Main Street, which they recently performed on Letterman, seems perfect for the age of 24-7 social networking, as McCauley asserts in a desperate rasp: "Miss one day and the whole world casts you out."

Divine Providence also has a sonic density that betrays its festive atmosphere. So in the studio, are Deer Tick focused or a mess?

"I'd say it's a little bit of both," says McCauley. "Or maybe one person would be really drunk and nobody else would. It all depended on what time of day you got to the studio."

Getting lost on those interwebs

Conceptual double album? Musicians hardly get past an EP to make a single album these days, let alone a double (conceptual or otherwise) one. But M83's fall-released Hurry Up, We're Dreaming spreads Anthony Gonzalez's savvy dance pop over two discs, creating an epic landmark in the French artist's decade-long career.

"I'm lost, I don't know what to listen to these days. The Internet is going too fast for me," Gonzalez (a.k.a. M83) tells Metro. "People might get excited about a record, but 20 minutes later they are excited about another," he says, sounding like a child of the 1960s rather than the 1980s.

But the main motivation for the epic record, though, is that he felt the passage of time and childhood lost.

"The nostalgia of being a kid and now you're a grown up and everything is over, but knowing that you can connect to your past through memories is the beauty of this album."

There's nothing wrong with getting into the spirit of the season, but do it on your own terms.

Sometimes, your own terms might mean this chill reggae version of a classic, so you don't feel like it's something you've already heard a million times.

Pretty Boy Swag — Soulja Boy Tell'em

Speaking of "get out the way," you might want to make this one your anthem too, and say "pretty boy comin' through."

Bittersweet Symphony — The Verve

Ever see the video for this one? Singer Richard Ashcroft is just walking through the crowded street, banging into everybody else, totally oblivious that they're there because his song is so pretty. This tune will make you be that guy as you steamroll through the mall.

Albatross — Fleetwood Mac

You'll definitely need a few zen moments with your headphones as you brave the shopping. This wordless tune by an early incarnation of Fleetwood Mac is a great start. # Double up on Some Girls

Rolling Stones re-release iconic album All the tracks they wanted in last time now make the final list

Keith Richards equates the rush to release the Rolling Stones' seminal album Some Girls as "the same as cutting off your baby's head."

"We couldn't release a double album and we were on deadline," the guitarist said of the 1978 recording. "Sometimes you're really getting into tracks you want to finish, but they don't make (it) because time was up."

Now many of those songs will be included as the album was re-released yesterday as a double disc with previously unreleased material. A box set from the album also is being released.

Mick Jagger said Some Girls was a pivotal album for the band.

"The records that came before this were not as good. This was better," Jagger said, referencing the heavily produced Goats Head Soup, and It's Only Rock and Roll, which preceded it.

At the time, punk rock and disco were threatening the old "dinosaur rockers," as Richards said, so the band had to get back to its basic stripped-down sound.

Old friends

According to Richards, he and Jagger recently mended fences after Richards revealed too much about his songwriting partner in his autobiography earlier this year.

Quote: "He's a brother, a best friend, and probably the most contentious person I know ... We patched it up now. The thing is we enjoy working with each other; it's the idea of it that's frightening."

"The punks started to kick us ... the Sex Pistols, and The Clash, and other bands were coming out and we realized we were already in a second generation," Richards said.

One of the album's biggest hits, and also the most criticized at the time, was the dance track Miss You.

"It's not like we wanted to make a career out of disco; it just happened to be that beat, and Mick came up with this beautiful idea. If you're ever gonna do disco, you got to do it now. It was like a one-off," Richards said.

EVAN AGOSTINI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Mick Jagger, left, Keith Richards of The Rolling Stones attends a special screening of their new documentary Stones In Exile.

Jagger, who says he loves all forms of dance music from the 1930s to house music, didn't know why it mattered.

"I never thought for one minute that people would criticize you for doing something with a dance beat," Jagger said. "So the idea of it being 'Bob Dylan going electric' never occurred to me."

The song went to No. 1 on the Billboard chart, and spawned a variety of dance mixes.

Next year, the band will celebrate its 50th anniversary, and there's a great deal of speculation as to whether the band will tour for their milestone.

"I'm hoping to do something about it. Right now, I don't want to go too much into it. I'm pulling the boys together and (will) see what happens. It's a work in progress. I'm not Nostradamus on this, but we all want to do something for the big 5-0," Richards said.

For Canuck band The Sheepdogs, success is showing no signs of ceasing

THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ The Sheepdogs.

With a gold album, sold-out shows across the country, an appearance on the hit TV show Project Runway, a recent tour with Kings of Leon and a Rolling Stone cover under their belts, the Sheepdogs continue to see their popularity rise.

After winning a Rolling Stone cover shot and accompanying feature article published during the summer, the four shaggy rockers have been able to play music on a full-time basis, said bass player Ryan Gullen.

Previously when the band members toured, they would have to return home to work at their jobs, he said.

That all changed when Rolling Stone introduced the foursome — Gullen, Ewan Currie, Leot Hanson and Sam Corbett — to the world. Today, making music is their career — something Gullen calls "a dream come true."

"It's really great. Now that we can do what we really want to be doing, that's really cool," he said.

Gullen said the band has been doing a lot of travelling, as the Sheepdogs have been on tour since February. The reaction to the band from fans in the U.S. has been "overwhelmingly good," he said.

"Basically we've just been touring non-stop and kind of striking while the iron's hot, especially in the States," Gullen said in a recent telephone interview, while the band members were driving just outside Columbus, Ohio.

"It's a little bit different than touring Canada – shorter drives," he added.

For Canadian bands, it can be "very hard to get things going in the States," so the Sheepdogs are continuing to promote themselves after the Rolling Stone cover contest win put them in the spotlight, said Gullen.

Why can't we all just Get Along?

Documentary depicts maturing professional pair who have learned to manage their inevitable sisterly spats

Any Tegan and Sara fan who explores the three documentaries bundled into their new release Get Along with the hopes of seeing the twin sisters snipe and scrape like a couple of pocket-sized Gallaghers will be sorely disappointed.

In fact, the only time the Calgary-reared indie-pop pair asked that producers excise a scene from the two-plus hours of film footage, they did so because the clip in question depicted an ugly sibling spat.

"There was a seven-minute scene of Sara and I arguing very passive aggressively," Tegan Quin said as the personable pair sat down for an interview this week in Toronto. She remembers her cringing response as she watched the footage with the filmmakers in an editing suite.

Especially since that kind of bickering isn't exactly typical.

"We're not getting drunk and beating the crap out of each other, contrary to probably some of the fantasies ... There's definitely tension between us, but I think we have grown up to the point where it's not necessary for everyone to see that."

And yet, the 31-year-old Quins wearily acknowledge that many observers — from media to the duo's notoriously dedicated fans — have seemed to want to unearth an undercurrent of sisterly strife since Tegan and Sara self-released their debut in 1999.

Family on film

Among those people pleased by the new documentary might be the pair's mom.

- For years, she's been the subject of embarrassing anecdotes relayed by the twins onstage — adopting squawking tones to imitate her voice, no less — but now fans will get to see what she's actually like.
- "She has a normal voice, she's a normal person.... We took down the wall a bit to allow her to be out there," Tegan said.

That's the reason behind the new release's tongue-in-cheek title and press materials, which feature the twins sporting matching black eyes.

Yet Sara concedes that there was a time when the duo was a bit dishonest in response to the constant questions about how they function and tolerate one another.

"For so long, we avoided talking about our conflict because ... I would be like: 'I don't want to exploit this relationship,'" she said.

"There was a lot of: 'Oh, no, we totally get along.' ... But at some point I started to realize that our relationship professionally has lasted longer than most people's romantic relationships ... and I started to realize we're actually really good at this."

"For so long we avoided talking about our conflict because... I would be like: 'I don't want to exploit this relationship.'"
SARA QUIN OF TEGAN AND SARA

"So we started talking about it a little bit more. Because we were like, 'Maybe we should tell people the truth.'"

But finding that equilibrium took time.

"We've learned ways to deal with it, get over it quicker, to reconcile quicker, to make compromises, and you sort of pick your battles a little differently," Sara said. "I think that comes with age." THE CANADIAN PRESS

THE ROOTS AIR THEIR FEELINGS

THE WORD

DOROTHY ROBINSON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

On Monday night's Late Night With Jimmy Fallon the band picked some inflammatory music for featured guest (and Republican presidential candidate) Michele Bachmann to walk into.

The song they picked? Lyin' Ass Bitch by Fishbone.

And it wasn't a slip-up. Questlove even told fans and followers to pay attention via Twitter: "aight late night walkon song devotees: you love it when we snark: this next one takes the cake. Ask around cause I aint tweeting the title," he wrote. Then he even took it a step further by tweeting a link to the album and making fans guess which song they picked.

As Spin points out, The Roots often use songs to express their feelings. Two notable examples are playing Milli Vanilli when notorious lip-syncer Ashlee Simpson came on the show and introducing Heidi Montag and Spencer Pratt with Beck's Loser.

Both of those were tongue and cheek — and directed to fixtures of popular culture. This is a presidential candidate, congresswoman, and a foster parent to more than 23 children. No matter what you think of Bachmann's political views, it's offensive that a house band would sneakily suggest a woman is a "b-tch" on national television.

If Fishbone only had come up with a ska song entitled: You Have Different Political Views Than Me — Many of Which I Find Utterly Misguided and Wrongheaded — But We Live in a Country Where We Are Allowed to Have Different Beliefs and So We Will Just Agree to Disagree. Also, It is Not Polite to Call a Woman a 'Bitch'…. Fallon and The Roots would not find themselves in this pickle. And it will be a pickle. A huge, massive pickle.

Katy breaking for some baby-making time?

- Speculation builds that Katy and Russell Brand are on baby track
- Singer denies growing gossip

Katy Perry's recent decision to take some time off after her current tour to "work on family" naturally led some to speculate that the singer and comedian husband Russell Brand are already expecting, but Perry insists that's not the case.

"Hell no," Perry tells Hollyscoop when asked whether she is indeed pregnant.

But that doesn't mean she's opposed to the idea.

The pop star recently told Ellen DeGeneres she eventually wants a family.

"I want to have kids. I'm totally fine with saying that," she said. "I would love to have children. I think that's one of the reasons you get married."

Demi Moore's decision to file for divorce from Ashton Kutcher was reportedly a long time coming, as the marriage was "deteriorating for a long time," sources tell People magazine.

"Ashton was ready to end it," a source says, explaining they wrestled with their age difference, Moore's insecurities and Kutcher's wandering eye.

"He wanted to wait for Demi to actually do it. He loved her but couldn't live with her." Moore, for her part, "really wanted to save the marriage but couldn't deal with the pain of his cheating. They were fed up with each other."

Jenny McCarthy has signed up for online dating site Match.com, reports Hollyscoop.

"I have checked the guys I like between 35 to 48," she says of her foray into Internet dating.

The motivation, says McCarthy — who broke up with Jim Carrey last year — is a lack of masculinity in Los Angeles. "There's no real 'guy guys,' so maybe importing from somewhere will be smart," she says.

Honky tonk Town

This isn't L.A., but there are plenty of (country) stars to gaze at Delight in Nashville's down-home feel

There's no shortage of twinkling celestial bodies in Nashville's night sky, but down on terra firma Music City USA has an abundance of human stars strolling its sidewalks.

Music is a multi-billion dollar industry in Nashville. With dozens of musical venues and scores of recording studios, Music City comes by its name honestly. There are so many stage, television and film stars living in and around Nashville, locals tend to treat the famous simply as neighbours.

It's the same if you're a tourist spending time at this popular destination. Nashville and the state of Tennessee have a delightful, unpretentious down-home feel for the visitor.

The city is the hub of pretty well every musical genre, and location of the immortal Grand Ole Opry and the Ryman Auditorium, where the likes of James Brown, Patsy Cline and Bruce Springsteen have thrilled generations of fans during its long history. While it might be a long way from rhinestones and elongated limos, the Bluebird Cafe is where you'll find many true hearts listening to a broad range of traditional music. The Bluebird is an intimate and inexpensive place to linger over a couple of beers and bask in the sounds created by top-notch professional singers and musicians.

For a city that's been called the buckle on the Bible belt (the city is home to the world's largest publisher of Bibles), Nashville has all the neon sparkle of a tourist town. However, you will also discover a deep cultural sophistication that will surprise you.

To experience these cultural roots, take time to visit the Frist Centre for the Visual Arts, the dramatic $20-million conversion of an Art Deco 1930s post office in downtown Nashville. Over at the magnificent Schermerhorn Symphony Centre you could take in a Beethoven evening.

Sweeten up with cherry fudge

For the ultimate in seasonal decadence, treat the taste buds to this deliciously rich dessert

Looking for a fun idea for the office potluck this holiday season? Try a hand at making fudge this year. With a few simple ingredients you can create a rich and chocolatey treat.

Ingredients:

- 2 cups (500 mL) granulated sugar
- 1 can (150 g) evaporated milk
- 1/2 cup (125 mL) butter
- 1 pkg (360 g) semisweet chocolate chips
- 1 jar (210 g) marshmallow crème
- 1 tsp (5 mL) vanilla
- 1 cup (250 mL) slivered almonds, toasted
- 3/4 cup (175 mL) dried Bing cherries, chopped
- 2/3 cup (150 mL) whole blanched almonds toasted, for garnish (optional)

Preparation:

1. Butter 9-inch (2 L) square baking pan; set aside.
2. In 3-quart (2.8 L) saucepan over medium-high heat, stir sugar, milk and butter until butter melts and mixture comes to a full boil. Continue to cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly.
3. Remove from heat; gradually mix in chocolate chips until melted, then stir in marshmallow crème until melted and thoroughly blended. Mix in vanilla, slivered almonds and cherries to distribute evenly.
4. With a rubber spatula, scrape into buttered pan and smooth the top. Decorate with whole almonds, spacing apart and pressing in lightly, so that fudge can be cut into squares between almonds. Allow to set in cool place for 2 to 3 hours.
5. Cut fudge into squares; arrange and cover with plastic wrap in gift packages, or place on serving dish. To store, wrap and refrigerate up to 1 week. Bring to room temperature before serving.

Orange and cherry

Here is a fun way to get your guests involved in their drink.

- 1.5 oz orange flavour vodka
- maraschino cherry
- orange slice
- sparkling water

In a mixing glass filled with ice cubes, chill orange flavoured vodka. Then pour into a cone shape glass. Add maraschino cherry. Place orange slice in the top of the glass in order to seal in the vodka.
To serve, pour cold sparkling water over the orange slice.
Serve the cocktail with a straw and ask your guest to push on the orange slice to mix the drink.
Makes 1 serving.

Start the day with fruit-stuffed soda bread

Swing into baking season and delight family with this simple-to-whip-up soda bread with dried cherries.

It's perfect at breakfast or with a cup of tea or coffee during a welcome break in the day.

Try the sliced loaf with butter or cream cheese.

Ingredients:

- 1.125 ml (4 1/2 cups) all-purpose flour
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) granulated sugar
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) baking powder
- 2 ml (1/2 tbsp) baking soda
- 2 ml (1/2 tbsp) salt
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) shortening
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) dried cherries, cranberries or raisons
- 500 ml (2 cups) buttermilk

Preparation:

1. Heat oven to 350 F. Lightly grease a baking sheet or line with parchment paper.
2. In a bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt.
3. Cut in shortening with a pastry blender or fork until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add cherries and buttermilk, stirring until all ingredients are moistened. Turn out onto floured surface and knead dough for about 1 minute. Shape into a ball.
4. lace on prepared baking sheet and bake in centre of the over for 30-35 minutes or until loaf is golden and sounds hollow when tapped.

STUDENT VOICE

NAOMI ELMALEH
TALENTEGG.CA

I recently graduated from York University with a BA (Honours) in communications studies. I participated in many internships throughout my university career, had numerous part-time jobs, and I excelled academically.

I thought that finding a job when I graduated would be incredibly easy, since I was so motivated and enthusiastic about joining the workforce. But little did I know that this would not be the case.

I was eager to find a position in the field of communications and public relations in order to see if this type of work was right for me. Checking job boards was one of my daily activities.

▶ Naomi Elmaleh kept her head high during the hunt and now she's got plenty to smile about.

I applied and kept track of every resumé and cover letter I sent in — and it totalled over 90 in the span of five months. After only hearing back from six or seven, I was discouraged, furious, and upset with myself. I just had to find another way.

I found the best way to look for work was networking. I made use of all the resources and connections I had because I realized that you never know who might know of someone who is looking for someone.

I also found it helpful to go on informational interviews, which is calling or emailing someone from a company you would like to work for and asking if they would be willing to meet with you briefly.

You would be surprised to see how many professionals are willing to help out recent grads.

Feel free to ask them anything about their line of work, working at that company even ask if they can take a look at your resumé.

Sometimes they will take it with them and keep it on file.

My advice to recent graduates is to never feel discouraged. Finding a job is very time-consuming, and it takes a lot of hard work and dedication. If the search seems to be never-ending, don't give up. I know it sounds a little corny, but it's true.

Tap into all the resources you can use: TalentEgg, LinkedIn, Facebook, friends, family, newspapers, networking events, and don't be afraid to put yourself out there.

Let employers see your enthusiasm, passion, hard-work ethic, and motivation.

After months on the job hunt, I was finally offered a position at a great organization.

Where Naomi is now

I am currently the director of communications and student programming at a supplementary school in Toronto.

I am very happy with my position and the organization I work for and I know that my time here will be very rewarding. I do hope to return to school to complete a post-graduate certificate in public relations and communications, as well as to continue my work in the non-profit sector in Toronto.

My recommendation for employers is to be more open-minded. A lot of job postings require a number of years worth of work experience in that field.

When you are a recent graduate looking for a job, this qualification seems very daunting.

OFTEN TO SIGN IS TO SURRENDER

Read carefully Most contracts contain employer-friendly terms

WORKPLACE LAW

DANIEL LUBLIN
DAN@CANADAEMPLOYMENTLAWYER.COM
TWITTER: @DANLUBLIN

It's possibly the worst rule in workplace law — corporations are permitted to insist that employees sign one-sided employment contracts that reduce their legal rights. Regrettably, employees with little bargaining power or an understanding of the law, seldom realize that their interests are being undermined. What are some of the more punitive contractual terms?

Probationary periods

ISTOCK

▶ What exactly are you agreeing to? Don't hesitate to fuss over the fine print.

New employees are not 'probationary' as a matter of law. They are only probationary if they agree to it in a contract. If they have, employers are then given the right to dismiss for reasons that would otherwise be insufficient and worse, by providing only minimum notice or pay, or often less.

Termination clauses

Without any language surrounding termination in the contract, employees are entitled to 'fair' severance upon their termination based on how long it would take to find another job. However, employers often draft contracts to provide employees with less than what is fair. Why would anyone to agree to this? Because they do not realize these terms can be negotiated or sometimes refused.

No contractual changes

Can the job be modified or changed? Once the job begins, employees can refuse any significant changes that negatively affect them, such as demotion or even reduced pay – unless they have agreed to a contract that permits it.

What should employees do? First, review any new contract with a lawyer and don't be reluctant to renegotiate terms. Second, challenge the enforceability of these contracts where the facts present that argument. I have won in court by raising the inference that a contract was signed without proper consent — such findings are not exceptions.

Karlsson No. 1 in all-star voting

Fans of the Ottawa Senators are determined to see some familiar faces at the all-star game.

Defenceman Erik Karlsson led all NHL players with 147,468 all-star votes in results released by the NHL yesterday, putting him just ahead of teammate Daniel Alfredsson (131,774). Senators forwards Jason Spezza (117,899) and Milan Michalek (108,247) were fourth and sixth overall, respectively.

Voting wraps up Jan. 4 and the all-star game will be played at Ottawa's Scotiabank Place on Jan. 29. Fans determine six starters for the event.

The leading vote-getters by position are forwards Alfredsson, Spezza and Phil Kessel of the Toronto Maple Leafs; defencemen Karlsson and Zdeno Chara of the Boston Bruins; and goaltender Tim Thomas of the Bruins.

Pittsburgh Penguins captain Sidney Crosby made a major gain with his return to action Monday, receiving about 14,000 of his 74,528 votes in one day.

After struggling under former coach Cory Clouston last season, Nick Foligno is thriving with support from new coach Paul MacLean

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Nick Foligno has 10 points so far this season.

Nick Foligno was anxious for a fresh start. And through 21 games, the Ottawa Senators winger hasn't disappointed.

Not only does Foligno feel pretty good about his personal performance so far — six goals and 10 points — he's also happy knowing that he has the support of head coach Paul MacLean.

"(Paul's) made me a better player," Foligno said yesterday. "He's made me aware of things that are lacking in my game, but also pointed out my strong points. He helps me work on the things that aren't great, but still points out my strengths.

"He has that player's feel to the game, he's played the game and knows what we're going through and that's only going to help a player improve."

It's no secret that Foligno struggled under former coach Cory Clouston last year. The player often found himself in the dog house, leaving him to second-guess himself.

Foligno is flourishing under MacLean and feels a sense of relief knowing that every mistake won't be magnified. He's worked with the new coach on his skating and the need for him to keep moving in the offensive zone. It's made a difference.

"My expectation for Nick was to make sure he got skating and that he got to the net and give us a bit of a physical element," said MacLean. "Not like Chris Neil, but to finish checks and make sure you're hard to play against and get to the net hard and hang around the net and he's done that to this point and he's had success doing that.

"I think he's worked real hard and his skating has come a ways and he's playing well for us."

Foligno is in the final year of his contract and will become a restricted free agent in July. While he hopes to remain with the Senators, he's not dwelling on his contract status.

"I want to be here and be a big part of this team moving forward and hopefully that will work itself out," said Foligno. "I just need to continue to play well and if you do that then all the numbers and everything takes care of itself."

Engine

Under the hood is an inline six-cylinder engine that delivers 325 horsepower and 345 pound-feet of torque. That's up 25 horsepower over the S60's standard six-cylinder turbo engine, which was the only engine available for the 2011 model year.

Also joining the lineup for 2012 is a new T5 base model with a 250-horsepower 2.5-litre five-cylinder turbo engine. Unlike the 3.0, which is mated to an all-wheel-drive system, the 2.5 comes only as a front-wheel-driver.

0-to-100 km/h

According to Volvo, the R-Design will achieve a zero-to-100 km/h time in about 5.5 seconds, quicker by 0.3 than the now mid-range S60 T6. By comparison, the 333-horsepower Audi S4 is about a half-second quicker still, if that helps put things in perspective.

A six-speed "Geartronic" automatic transmission directs the power to the front (T5) or all four wheels, which is the case with both T6 models.

Fashion statement

The easiest way to tell the T6 AWD R-Design from the rest of the line is by its blacked-out grille, lower chin spoiler and rear lower-body diffuser that's sandwiched between the twin exhaust pipes. A set of 18-inch "Ixion" alloy wheels makes a unique fashion statement.

The only R-Design logo you'll find is located in the grille area, which is a very subtle and elegant touch.

▶ The R-Design is largely a styling package with an additional 25 horsepower and some matching suspension tuning. The brakes are the same size as what you'll find on the lesser T6-AWD. The R-Design lists at $51,400, which is about $4,850 more than a T6 and more than $12,000 above the price of the base S60.

Safe, practical ... and a little wild

MALCOLM GUNN

WHEELBASE MEDIA

It's always an internal struggle when your heart screams "sports car" but your head, along with the pleadings of significant others, requires something more practical.

Fortunately, Volvo offers a pleasant way to satisfy both sides of your nerve-wracked conscience with the 2012 S60 R-Design.

The S60 demonstrated added style mixed with Swedish sensibility when it was launched for the 2011 model year.

At that time, Volvo announced that a more basic S60 would follow. It has delivered on that promise, but in a surprise move, the automaker is also marketing a more aggressive-looking — and acting — performance version.

The T6 AWD R-Design is an extension of the same car that has gone further than just about any previous Volvo model since the 1960s P1800 coupe at removing Volvo's boxy stigma. For the R-Design, the front and rear end have been remodelled while leaving the surrounding sheetmetal mostly untouched.

The R-Design adds a more muscular dimension to what is one of Volvo's more popular models.

It's also one that can satisfy both the heart and the head of just about any driver.

The greatest car show that you've never seen

Welcome to Las Vegas' SEMA

MALCOLM GUNN
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA
WHEELBASE MEDIA

We came, we saw and our feet and knees are still killing us after walking the miles of aisles trying to figure out the best dirt to relay to you. It's not easy.

The Specialty Equipment Market Association (SEMA) show is a meeting of buyers and sellers of aftermarket auto parts and accessories from around the globe.

Together, they determine what you'll find on store shelves until the next SEMA show arrives in November of 2012 to begin the process all over again.

Everything automotive is on the table, from shiny trim parts and running boards to reproduction 1965 Mustang bodies and diamond-studded wheels worth a quarter-million each.

Just the brand new parts alone number about 2,000 and what better way to show those parts than to have hundreds of show vehicles wearing them.

Members of the press get to crash this party, which takes place in and around the 3.2-million-square-foot Las Vegas convention Center, while the public is left to wonder what the fuss is all about.

Well, this is what the fuss is all about.

▶ What better way to show off parts and accessories than to bring along show cars that they look good on. SEMA, quite literally, has thousands of them.

Hottest trends

Larger (up to 30 inches in diameter, in some cases) and fancier wheels continue to dominate SEMA. Black-finished wheels remain popular, but chrome and polished aluminum pieces remain in vogue.

Also taking root are matte-finish paint schemes that lack any gloss.

Mercedes-Benz, BMW and other high-end vehicles even charge extra for this primer-paint effect.

Related to this movement are hot rods and older collector cars that have been deliberately left in their natural "barn find" patina, instead of being restored to better-than-new condition. The automotive coatings industry can't be all that crazy about this movement and is likely hoping it never really catches on.

But perhaps the most significant trend of all is the growth in retro-styled bodies.

You can now build fairly exact replicas of first-generation Mustang and Camaros, along with 1955-'57 Chevrolets and 1940s-era Ford and Lincoln coupes.

One company even makes a very cool reproduction of a Corvette Nomad concept that was the hit of General Motors' 1954 Motorama show.

Automobile manufacturer displays

Automakers are increasingly embracing the SEMA show as a venue to demonstrate how their latest models can be modified with aftermarket performance parts, high-tech accessories and trick colour schemes. Some even use this event to launch their upcoming latest and greatest models, knowing that the press will provide them with millions of dollars worth of publicity for free.

This year, GM, in celebration of Chevrolet's 100th anniversary, featured its new Sonic small car in various tricked-out guises, along with two interesting versions of the Chevrolet Camaro: a retro-influenced COPO (Central Office Purchase Order) drag racer available later in 2012; and a full-scale Hot Wheels concept painted and decorated like Mattel's popular toy car.

Most popular vehicles

SEMA's organizers presented awards to the Fiat 500, Ford F-150 pickup, Jeep Wrangler and Chevrolet Camaro as "Hottest" in their respective classes, but the Camaro is our official real star of the show. Both coupes and convertibles proved highly popular as demonstration platforms (where did the Mustangs go this year?) for a wide variety of new-product add-ons, while the Jeep Wrangler remained popular as a truck/sport ute product canvass.

Honourable mentions go to the Nissan GT-R, plus assorted Porsches, Ferraris and Lamborghinis that always provide excellent eye candy for numerous accessory manufacturers.

Toyota marks Canadian anniversary at plant

A day after Toyota celebrated the start of Corolla production at its new Mississippi assembly plant in the United States, the big Japanese carmaker marked its 25th anniversary making vehicles in Canada last Friday.

Toyota Motor Manufacturing Canada hosted a celebration in the southwestern Ontario city of Cambridge, where the company began its Canadian operations in 1986.

At the time, the company estimated it would have 1,000 workers and produce 50,000 cars a year. Today, the automaker operates three plants in Ontario and employs about 6,500 workers.

Last year, it built more than 458,000 Toyota and Lexus vehicles at plants in Cambridge and nearby Woodstock.

"(Toyota Motor Manufacturing) has become one of Toyota's largest, most successful manufacturing operations in the world," Toyota Corp. president Akio Toyoda said at the ceremony, attended by federal, provincial and local officials.

ROGELIO V. SOLIS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Toyota Corp. president Akio Toyoda.

"It has done so by consistently exceeding expectations."

Ontario has seen traditional Detroit Three carmakers — GM, Ford and Chrysler — cut tens of thousands of jobs in the last decade as their parent companies restructured in the United States. But Toyota and Honda have expanded their operations in Ontario, Canada's manufacturing heartland.

"Toyota is an essential part of Ontario's auto industry, and a big reason why the province continues to be the leading jurisdiction in North America for vehicle assembly," said Brad Duguid, Ontario's Minister of Economic Development and Innovation.

Still those companies have faced problems in Asia, where the March earthquake and tsunami and the recent massive flooding in Thailand have cut parts supplies and slowed down their global output, even in Canada.

On Thursday, a ceremony in Blue Springs, Miss. formally marked the recent start of production, almost five years after Toyota announced it would build a new plant in the tiny town in the sparsely populated hills of north Mississippi.

COMPACT SUV TITLE FIGHT TO TAKE INTRIGUING TURN

AUTO PILOT

MIKE GOETZ
DRIVE
@METRONEWS.CA

A major auto show like last week's clam bake at Los Angeles will always bring out the crowd-pulling attractions, like fantastical concepts, rocket-launcher sport machines, and uber-luxury land yachts.

But we're not going to discuss any of them. Well, at least not today.

Because one of the most compelling story lines to emerge from the show concerns two nameplates with more working class roots — Ford Escape and Honda CR-V.

Both Escape and CR-V debuted in their next-generation finery at Los Angeles, and both are huge sellers, which sets up a doozy battle for segment supremacy in 2012.

Escape is actually the top selling SUV in North America and has dominated the Canadian compact crossover sales segment for years, with its combination of keen pricing, roomy confines, and rugged, good looks.

Honda CR-V is a perennial top-three contender, currently just behind Hyundai Santa Fe (YTD), and has always impressed with a refined and efficient engine, easy handling, reliability, and not-going-to-bug-anybody looks.

When the new versions get to battle, it will be more about style and technology.

The Escape's new style eschews its previous, traditional SUV profile, for one that's sleeker and more like others in its segment.

The shape is about 10 per cent more aerodynamic.

CONTRIBUTED

▶ The new Ford Escape has a feature that allows you to open the tailgate with a kicking motion.

And here's a partial list of some of its new technologies: a tailgate that can open with a "kicking motion" from your foot; a 4WD system that can slow the vehicle when cornering too fast; your choice of two direct-injection, turbocharged powerplants (2.0-litre and 1.6-litre EcoBoosts), and an updated version of the current 2.5-litre; and second-generation MyFord Touch.

The 2012 Honda CR-V will move away from the "quasi minivan" look, and gets a more muscled and sporty vibe.

Its new AWD system is more able to precisely figure out traction requirements and how to mix the torque between the four wheels. The sole powertrain is the highly-evolved Honda 2.4-litre i-VTEC "four" and a 5-speed automatic tranny.

Interesting new CR-V developments include: Eco Assist, which teaches you to drive "greener"; ECON Mode, which alters the powertrain in a more green way; standard Bluetooth hands-free interface; rearview camera with top view; satellite-linked navigation system with bilingual voice recognition; and a SMS text messaging function, which can read texts over the audio system, and allow drivers to respond with one of six pre-set text messages.

New CR-V production starts early in 2012 at Honda's plant in Alliston, Ont.

The 2013 Escape will arrive a bit later, in the spring.

By the end of the 2012 we'll definitely see who made the most of their new interpretations.

Chrysler 300 loved for affordable luxury

SECOND GEAR

JUSTIN PRITCHARD
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA

The latest Chrysler 300 left a huge mark on the market with handsome and classical styling when it hit Canadian roads some years ago — and it's been selling strong ever since.

By offering honest pricing, affordable luxury and a powertrain for any reason or season, Chrysler created an award-winning touring car that put the American luxury sedan back on the map.

2005 to 2010 Chrysler 300

Engines

Standard was a 3.5-litre V-6 with 250 horsepower. A 5.7-litre HEMI V-8 could be fitted with 340 horsepower. That figure climbed slightly towards the end of the generation. All-wheel drive was available with either engine.

What owners like

The 300's styling, available V-8 power, honest pricing and comfort levels attracted many shoppers to showrooms — while a plush ride, easy-to-use cabin and overall value sealed the deal.

What owners dislike

Common gripes included slippery handling on snow and ice (proper tires will help a lot here), sub-par gas mileage with either engine, and limited visibility.

Common issues

Powertrain problems are more likely to be electronics-related than mechanical in nature. Ensure no warning lights are illuminated, the engine runs smoothly, and all instruments work as expected. A "scan" of the 300's computer system is also suggested ahead of your purchase.

Have the underside of your potential used 300 checked for leaks, especially around the transmission and transfer case (if equipped with AWD).

Verdict

At the end of the day, lower-than-average resale values, high-class styling and available HEMI performance should make the Chrysler 300 a popular choice with budget-minded performance and luxury enthusiasts.

Taxes, license, insurance, registration and fees are not included. See your Honda dealer for full details. Dealer may sell for less. Additional financing offers available on 36, 48, 60 and 72 months. Offer expires December 31, 2011.

Electric cars need more than plug-and-play

There are other options besides a standard wall outlet

DRIVING FORCE

JIL McINTOSH
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA

Once just a possibility, electric vehicles are now making their way to market. But just because you can buy a battery-powered car like the Nissan Leaf or Chevrolet Volt, don't expect to simply bring it home and plug it in.

"It's not viable to plug it into an extension cord out the window," says Kevin McIntyre, marketing account manager for Eaton, which manufactures vehicle charging stations.

"The cars draw an awful lot of power. These run steady once they're charging and you want to run them off a dedicated circuit if you can."

Simply plugging an electric vehicle into a standard wall outlet will take anywhere from 12 to 16 hours to charge, McIntyre says.

"When you install a residential home charging station, it cuts it down to four to six hours. You're connecting to 220 volts versus 110 volts."

That higher voltage is similar to what a clothes dryer or oven uses, but those appliances draw power sporadically, turning the heating element on and off as needed.

"The difference is (the car) is a continuous load, so we oversize the protection and the wire that feeds it," McIntyre says.

"You're drawing maximum load. If it's not done safely, you can have short circuits, start tripping breakers, and potentially have a fire if you don't have (electrical) current protection."

Even if you're willing to take longer to charge your car, it should still be plugged into a dedicated circuit, which will prevent "nuisance tripping" of breakers when other electrical items in the house draw power.

Before installing a charger, Eaton's contractors assess the house to see if its electrical system can handle the load, "preferably before you buy the car just to make sure you can charge it," McIntyre says.

For a house with 200-amp service, an installed charger is approximately $2,000. Fast-charge, direct-current (DC) chargers can top up a depleted battery to 80 per cent in about half an hour and can provide enough power for 50 km of driving in about 10 minutes, but at around $75,000, they're primarily intended for commercial use.

JIL MCINTOSH/FOR METRO

Charging facts

- Electric cars and AC charging stations are standardized, and so just like fuel pump nozzles on gasoline-powered cars, every charging connector in North America fits the outlet on every electric vehicle. No matter what charging station you buy, it will charge your car.
- DC fast-chargers are not yet standardized, and engineers are working to draw up standards so they will fit every car as well.
